

RESOURCE

Institutional Regulatory Frameworks: A comparative assessment

|

Description / Abstract

The aim of this document is to analyze and compare available information and outline key points on the institutional frameworks of water and wastewater services regulation within WAREG member jurisdictions. Therefore, the report describes institutional arrangements in use and enquires about the fundamental role of independent regulation to protect the interests of the stakeholders involved in the water sector. The document is designed to be simple and easy to understand. It has the intention to be descriptive but it remarks some key points on the role of independent regulation in the water sector.
