

Valuing water in Tanzania: Launch event

Have you ever wondered how much water contributes to the national economy? The Ministry of Water of Tanzania, the Wami Ruvu Basin Water Board and GWP, with support from the SDG 6 IWRM Support Programme, have been collaborating to answer this question for Tanzania. Now they are ready to share the results!

Covering the value of water for three important sectors for Tanzania's economy: agriculture, manufacturing and mining, the resulting publication makes a strong case for why water is undervalued in financial terms compared to the significant economic value it brings to the country.

We invite you to attend the free launch event, in which the results will be shared and discussed.

When: Thursday October 31st,
13.00 to 14.30 CET / 15.00 – 16.30
Tanzania time

Where: Zoom Register online here.

If interested in joining the event in person at one of the grouped locations, please confirm your attendance through Fatuma Mambo at [0763777131, fatuma.mambomlimbila@maji.go.tz] or Scolastica Lukoo at [0674395508, scolastica.lukoo@maji.go.tz].

You can already consult the full publication or the policy note on the links provided.